TWO INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Two men were injured, neither seriously, when their car ran off the west side of the road into Middle creek about two miles north of Emmitsburg on the Gettysburg road at 1:10 o'clock this morning.

William Roy Dinsmore, 18, Gettysburg R. 2, driver of the car, suffered contusions and abrasions about the forehead. Kenneth Walker, New Oxford R. 2, owner of the machine, suffered a contusion of the right shoulder.

A charge of reckless driving will be placed before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder against Dinsmore by the investigating officer, Pvt. Robert Deitrich of the local state police.

According to Private Deitrich, Dinsmore apparently fell asleep while driving and drove off the road into Middle creek, the car turning completely over in its drop down the bank into the stream. The two youths were the only occupants of the vehicle. Both were removed to the hospital by a passing motorist. Damage was estimated at $500.

Here And There

News Collected At Random

MRS. EISENHOWER

"He'll eat steak four times a day if I'd serve it to him . . . and he loves Rissole potatoes with plenty of gravy and apple pie."

That's what Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower said of her distinguished husband, Gen. Dwight David Eisenhower, commander of Allied forces in the titanic struggle now being waged in Italy, during the course of a 40-minute interview it was our privilege to have with her Sunday noon. The interview was only supposed to last 10 minutes.

Mrs. Eisenhower does not grant interviews but because of the warm feeling she has for Gettysburg, which had its beginning in 1918 when General Eisenhower, then a major, commanded Camp Colt on the Battleground, and the assurance that it was to be exclusively for readers of The Gettysburg Times she broke the promise she made to herself.

Interviewing the wife of one of the most outstanding field generals of this war was unusually pleasant and interesting. A splendid conversationalist, vivacious and a most charming personality, Mrs. Eisenhower readily answered a barrage of questions with an infectious smile that is best described in her own words of her husband: "Ike has the most engaging grin of anybody I've ever met."

She is the tailored type of woman, modest, unassuming and unaffected by the heights of prominence to which she has been hurried by the world-wide fame of her soldier-husband.

Mrs. Eisenhower, a native of Iowa, was Miss Mamie Doud ("Just plain old fashioned Mamie and that is the name I was baptized") when she met the General in Texas 27 years ago. They have been inseparable ever since, except for the past 16 months when her husband was sent to Europe . . . to lead the Allies to Victory.

"Of course I'd like to be with my husband but not in the theatre of war. That is no place for wives. Those men have enough worries with the war not to be bothered with us," she said.

"Our duty is to remain at home and do every single thing we can to hurry the Allied Victory for all of those brave men who are doing the fighting," she emphasized.

Mrs. Eisenhower hears from her husband frequently. She calls his letters "notes." Sometimes they are only six or eight lines, written in longhand . . . and incidentally the only such letters he writes. Mrs. Eisenhower's letters are much longer but the General complains that they are not frequent enough. He is most appreciative of the many kindnesses showered on his wife in this country . . . and Mrs. Eisenhower says "It overwhelms me. Everybody is so kind and considerate and thoughtful. Everybody seems to want to do things for me. I really don't need anything or want for anything and yet everybody is so kind. I hardly know what to say."

Her gracious manner just naturally invites these niceties and she strives to return in kind. She devotes a goodly portion of each day to war services.

When she returned from a tour of the Battleground Sunday after visiting the site where her husband had his field headquarters here in 1918 Mrs. Eisenhower said:

"How well I remember watching soldiers, sitting on the grass on the little elevation across the road from my husband's headquarters, writing letters. I don't think I shall ever forget that. And that's what our boys want most of all in this war . . . letters."

"We should be cheerful and keep on carrying on for our boys. We should write often. Write cheerful letters. Don't burden them with sorrow." (Please Turn to Page 6)

He resigned on his first anniversary in the church because of his health. Death followed an illness of two years. He was confined to bed for the last six weeks.

SCOUT TROOP GOES CAMPING

Individual advancement work was emphasized on a week-end camping trip by members of Boy Scout Troop No. 77 under the direction of Scoutmaster Jack Cessna. The boys occupied a cabin at the site of the former CCC camp in Pitzer's woods along West Confederate avenue.

The scouts went to the campsite for their regular Friday evening meeting with Dr. J. Walter Coleman, national park superintendent, as guest. Games and stunts followed the session.

Saturday morning the boys hiked to Devil's Den and the Round Tops where they practiced long-distance signaling in Morse code by the use of flags. Advancement work filled the afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Tilberg were campfire guests Saturday evening.

A Sunday school service was conducted at the camp Sunday morning by Dr. William Quillian, Jr., of the Gettysburg college faculty. The scouts returned to their homes in time for Sunday dinner.

The boys who attended the week-end camp included: Sydney Poppay, John Bream, William Bushman and William Snyder of the Panther patrol; Jack Ridinger, Junior Cooper, Bruce Westerdaal and Robert Williams of the Pine Tree patrol, and Keith and Arthur Clapsdale, Francis Eberhart and William Straley of the Eagle patrol. Allies Advance 12 Miles Through Mud In Italy To Capture Important Towns; Wake Island Is Lambasted

2 SHIPS LEFT IN FLAMES; 61 PLANES RUINED

Pearl Harbor, T. H., Oct. 11 (AP)—Japanese-occupied Wake Island languished today in the wreckage of a battering probably more severe and certainly more destructive than any ever visited upon the gallant American Marines who for the first two weeks of the war held that mid-Pacific pinpoint against overwhelming enemy force.

The United States Navy delivered the retributory blow in a two-day ship-plane assault starting last Tuesday. Three hundred and twenty tons of bombs, believed to be the greatest weight of explosives ever unloosed in a single operation against an enemy target in the Pacific, were dropped on the three tiny atolls that make up Wake Island.

Down 61 Planes

By the time the attack ended, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported in a communique which gave the first details more than 61 Japanese planes had been destroyed and two ships, one of them a gasoline tanker, had been left in ruins. Machine shops, barracks and supply dumps throughout the three small islands were red with flame. Anti-aircraft and coastal defense guns were heaps of shattered metal.

And, one Naval flier reported, "We saw a considerable number of dead Japs scattered around the land scape."

For this destruction, Admiral Nimitz said, the Navy paid a cost of 13 planes, all lost in combat.

Fighter-escorted Avenger torpedo bombers and Dauntless dive bombers from a carrier task force under the command of Rear Admiral Alfred E. Montgomery initiated the attack at dawn Tuesday.

Ships Blast Isle

A strong force of Japanese planes challenged the Navy raiders, but American fighters went after the enemy and shot down at least 30, while the carrier bombers concentrated on Japanese aircraft still aground.

Simultaneously the escort vessels in the carrier force drew close to shore and let go with their big guns against the exploding island.

Late in the afternoon a squadron of land-based Navy four-engined Liberators, possibly from Midway Island 1,000 miles distant, joined in the party.

By the time they arrived, Admiral Nimitz' communique said, "enemy defenses were so neutralized x x x that the heavy bombers encountered only weak, ineffective anti-aircraft fire and no air opposition."

Second Attack

After dropping their bomb loads, however, the Liberators swept down to 300 feet and with their machine guns blasted whatever remnants of opposition they could find.

The following morning the carrier task force again sent its light bombers against the badly smitten island and again unloaded its guns on the tattered defenses. Then it sailed safely away from a scene of utter destruction and desolation.

Allies Pound Nazi Bases In Greece And Aegean Sea

By EDWARD KENNEDY

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Allied air offensive against the Germans in Greece and the islands of the Aegean and the Eastern Mediterranean raged without abatement yesterday and has already taken a heavy toll of the enemy's air strength in those areas, it was stated at Allied headquarters today.

Flying Fortresses of the Northwest African Air Force again made a 1,500-mile round trip without escort Sunday to strike the important Nazi air base of Tatoi just outside Athens, and Araxos in the northwestern tip of the Peloponnese, a communique announced.

RAF bombers from the Middle East joined in the two-way aerial squeeze against the German Balkan positions by bombing Maritza and Calato on Rhodes island in the Dodecanese on Saturday night, a Cairo communique announced. Airfields at these places were straddled by bombs and fires started.

Yesterday was the sixth successive day of air attacks on the Germans in Greece from North African and Italian bases and followed a blistering series of assaults by Fortresses, Liberators, bombers and fighters on eight airfields on the islands of Crete and Rhodes and the Greek mainland that was announced yesterday.

Puppet Show Nets $1.70 For Red Cross

Howard Sheets, Jr., 11-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sheets, 37 East Lincoln avenue, heard last week from his teacher of the work being done by the Red Cross and the duty of supporting the organization.

Young Howard put the lesson into action by staging a puppet show at his home and inviting other youngsters to attend the production for a small admission charge.

Saturday he visited the county Red Cross office in the court house with the admissions, $1.70, and asked the county secretary, Miss Margaret McMillan, which activity of the Red Cross most needed money.

Miss McMillan explained the various types of assistance and the youth decided to give the money to the purchase of kit bags for soldiers. Since the kit bag materials cost $1 a piece his mother, who is also a nurse's aide, donated the other 30 cents to make the gift an even $2.

LIST 3 CASES FOR NEXT COURT

Codori, all of Gettysburg, trading as the "Citizens Oil Company" for damages to person resulting from the explosion February 24, 1941, of a gasoline pump which he alleges was improperly maintained by the company.

Edward Swope, Evelyn Swope Neely, Esther Hayberger, Bertha Culp and Frank Slonaker, all of Gettysburg, are suing John Costello, Wilkes-Barre, in trespass suit, resulting from an auto collision March 21, 1942, near York Springs.

The action in equity was brought by Gettysburg college against Adams county, Gettysburg borough and the Gettysburg school board in an attempt to prevent these organizations from levying taxes against Auglinbaugh hall.

CLARK SEEKS TO OUTFLANK FLEEING FOE

By NOLAN NORGARD

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Oct. 11 (AP)—Plodding forward on foot through Italian mud which made motor transport almost useless and against stiffening German resistance, Lt. Gen. Mark C. Clark's Fifth Army captured Pontelandolfo, 12 miles northwest of Benevento, in a further flanking move against the Volturno river, Allied headquarters announced today.

Similarly heavy going was encountered by the Eighth Army of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery on the Adriatic front where gains of two to three miles were chalked up against the enemy who was being put under constant pressure.

44-Mile Front

Along the swollen Volturno, where the Fifth Army has established a 44-mile front, Gen. Clark's troops made no fresh gains, official reports indicated.

The crossing of the Volturno, 20 miles north of Naples, in force in a frontal attack appeared to be a difficult position, with enemy artillery concentrations prepared to lay down a withering fire on minutely charted bridging sites.

The winding stream, varying in width from 100 feet to 200 yards and with steep banks 10 to 15 feet high at most places, presented a major military obstacle particularly at its present high water stage. The water normally is only waist deep, but recent rains had greatly increased its depth.

Blast Most of Front

The capture of Pontelandolfo placed the Allies astride an arterial highway which extends westward to the coast and which must be defended strongly if the Germans are to prevent the flanking of their Volturno line.

In the drive northward the Fifth Army gained control of a wedge of territory in which the towns of Campolattaro, Fragneto, Reino, Casalodoni and Pescocostanzo were captured.

Resorting to tactics employed with extraordinary success in Tunisia and Sicily, the Allies sent fleets of medium, light and fighter bombers as flying artillery to blast dozens of enemy gun positions along most of the front.

These attacks were directed particularly at a point about five miles north of Capua, indicating the Germans had massed guns there in an effort to prevent any crossing of the Volturno at Capua.

"Eighth Army patrols are pushing westward vigorously," the bulletin said, adding:

Heavy Demolitions

"The enemy continues to fight hard and is using broken and difficult country to assist his defense. Demolitions still are being met on a heavy scale."

(The Office of War Information said the United Nations radio at Algiers had reported in a broadcast that artillery duels were raging along the Volturno river and that German forces appeared massing for a counterattack.)

Northeast of Benevento the Adriatic just above Termoli, the British Eighth Army advanced steadily through mountain territory toward the headwaters of the Biferno river with capture of such towns as San Marco, Gambatesa, Colletorto, Larino and Guglionesi—the latter inland and well west of the Biferno.

While the land advance continued, headquarters announced yesterday that the northwest African Air forces had loosed a heavy air offensive against the Germans in the Balkans and the Aegean area Saturday, with heavy bombers hitting eight airfields in Greece, Crete and Rhodes, and U. S. Lightnings knocking down 16 enemy bombers near Rhodes.

ALLIED SUCCESS IN ALL AREAS OVER WEEK-END

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(Associated Press War Analyst)

Success marched with the Allied global offensive over the week-end, from Europe clear around to the central Solomons, the most important operation being the continuance of the fierce Russian attacks in several strategic sectors of the long eastern front despite the terrific impediment of the autumn rains and mud.

This sensational Red drive has as its main objective the capture of strategic Nazi strong-points which will be essential for the Soviet armies when they launch their all-out winter offensive. Indeed, if Dame fortune should succumb to the blandishments of such amazing stamina and elan as the Russians are displaying, the winter drive might continue out of the summer offensive which by all rules of the game should now be finished.

How About Invasion?

However, a development of that sort would mean a collapse of the present German line—a chicken which we aren't warranted in counting, at least before its shell is cracked. Suffice it for the moment to note with satisfaction that the Muscovites have the power to undertake these additional operations while the enemy is still disorganized from the great retreat to the Dnieper.

There's another highly important reason, or so it strikes me, why the Reds are thus extending themselves. The Hitlerites can't be allowed a respite in which to pull themselves together and consolidate their new positions after the beating they have sustained.

One wonders whether the Russians, in undertaking this fresh task, are inspired by expectation of an Allied invasion of western Europe in the not distant future—or a distraction in some other theater—which would force Hitler to weaken his battle-line in Russia. Lieutenant General Ira C. Eaker, commander of the United States Eighth Air Force, based in England, yesterday predicted an Allied invasion of Germany "across the English Channel and the North Sea," though he gave no indication of when such a drive might be launched. However, American and British bomber fleets are hammering Hitler's fortress in great strength, thereby rendering support to the Russian operations.

May Quit Baltic States

Along much of the Dnieper river front, where the Nazis have been ordered by their master to make a stand, there is a lull in the fighting. But there are several important Red attacks in progress both in the Dnieper and in other sectors of the long line.

One of these is the continuation of the drive in the Smolensk sector towards the Baltic states. This offensive, which I previously stressed as a great menace to Hitler, is calculated to cut off the German army in the North, force evacuation of the Baltic states and play a big part in compelling the Germans to withdraw their entire eastern line still farther towards the fatherland. In this connection, reports reaching Sweden say the Nazis plan to evacuate the Baltic states this month.

Smashing Success

On the line of the great Dnieper itself, the Reds have crossed the river at three strategic points and are trying to develop the bridgeheads thus gained so that troops and supplies can follow across. One of these bridgeheads is just north of the Ukrainian capital of Kiev which is a major railway center and is strategic key to Hitler's present line. Another bridgehead has been gained just below Kiev, and successful development of these two footholds would force the Germans to evacuate Kiev.

The third bridgehead is just below Kremenchuk, another important river city and rail junction. Russian possession in force of both Kiev and Kremenchuk almost inevitably would compel a great withdrawal of the entire German Dnieper line.

Meantime the Russians have achieved a smashing success by driving the last of the Germans from the Taman Peninsula, gateway to the Caucasus just across the Kerch Strait from the Crimea. This paves the way for an assault on the Crimea itself, and the German army there is threatened with being cut off if the Dnieper line to the north is forced to retreat rapidly. Recovery of the Crimea would reestablish Russian control of the Black sea.

LAUNCH HUGE WASTE PAPER DRIVE IN PA.

Harrisburg, Oct. 11 (AP)—The State Defense Council's salvage committee today called on every man, woman and child in the commonwealth to collect six pounds of papers before October 31 to keep Pennsylvania paper mills operating.

Emphasizing the seriousness of the paper shortage, Salvage Chairman Warren R. Roberts said a quota of 30,000 tons has been set for Pennsylvania for the last three weeks of October.

County goals, he added, approximate three tons for each thousand of population or six pounds for each individual in the state.

Unless there are immediate increased paper shipments to Pennsylvania mills "production will be curtailed and it may be necessary for some of them to close," the chairman asserted.

Many Uses
"Waste paper is not only going into the manufacture of paperboard for containers of war materials and food," he said, "but it is being used in the manufacture of bomb bands, practice bombs, wing tips, airplane signals, parachute flares, ammunition chests and shell protectors."

"When we resumed the collection of waste paper a few months ago, we believed that, in view of past experiences, we would have no difficulty in supplying demands of the manufacturers."

"Our committees have done a good job, but the extraordinary demands of the mills for increasing supplies have forced us to call upon the public for an all-out conservation program."

Roberts warned against burning or throwing away any paper.

YANKS OCCUPY BIG AIRFIELD; WIPE OUT JAPS

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Oct. 11 (AP)—Moving in on the heels of the fleeing Japanese, American forces have taken possession of Vila airfield and all Kolombangara Island, thus achieving complete control of the central and southern Solomons.

Not a shot was fired in this occupation, which Gen. Douglas MacArthur today reported began on Oct. 6 and was concluded Oct. 9. Not a Japanese soldier was seen alive.

Among the shell-shattered palms and along the bomb cratered Vila landing strip, however, were found cannon-pieces, stores of ammunition and other war supplies—evidence that the enemy had fled in barehanded desperation from positions which for him long since had lost any practical military value.

10 Planes Wrecked

There, too, were found the wrecks of ten enemy aircraft in miserable testimony to the long and futile labor spent by the Japanese in trying to develop Vila as a base for fighter planes to protect their northern Solomons holdings and to escort their bombers on southward runs.

The invaders scarcely could have expected much opposition. For more than a month American planes, patrol boats and destroyers had been intercepting enemy barges stealing northward from Kolombangara and had sunk hundreds of the small craft with their cargoes of troops and supplies.

That wrote the end to the central Solomons campaign begun June 30 with American landings on Rendova Island, opposite New Georgia and its Munda airfield, the first big objective.

Today, of all the island chain from Guadalcanal north, only loosely-defended Choiseul and the Bougainville group remained in enemy hands.

The blast was the fourth major explosion due to a delayed action mine since the arrival of the Allied army here.

Today's blast occurred as crowds were passing the building enroute to a cathedral. There has been no estimate of the number of civilian casualties. The total of military death is expected to rise when all the debris is cleared away.

YANKS EXPECT TO WIN WORLD SERIES TODAY

By SID FEDER

St. Louis, Oct. 11 (AP)—If the New York Yankees don't wind up this world series today and read for home tonight as bosses of the baseball business again, then the bell captain in the Chase hotel is going to be a mighty peeved young man.

For, when Marius the Sluggo Russo pummeled the Cardinals 2-1 yesterday in the fourth game of the 1943 set, the Yankees immediately told the bell captain there'd be an extra dime or two in it for him if he had their trunks down in the lobby and waiting when they return from the ball park today so they can make a quick getaway for an early train.

That's how sure they are school will be out in this fifth game of a series that already has exploded much of the myth of the sure-footed, sure-hitting, sure-spirited St. Louis not-so-swifties and has put in the books a new record players' pool of $488,005.74 for the boys to divide.

Chandler Picked

If that weren't enough to convince them, Manager Joe McCarthy announced there'd be no more kidding around about pitchers and that Spud Chandler, who won the opening game last Tuesday with a one-earned-run job and was only the hottest hurler in the American league this season, will be out there doing business at the same old stand at post time, 1:30 p. m. (CWT) today.

Against him will be Mort Cooper, who hit a new high for himself last Wednesday when he whipped the American leaguers in the second game after twice practically having his head handed to him on a tray in the 1942 set, in which the Cards came home in front in five games.

But it wasn't only Marius the Sluggo's pitching and hitting yesterday or the prospects of Chandler's sleight of hand today that had many of the 36,196 customers, who crammed Sportsman's park for the fourth game, agreeing with the Yanks' idea that it won't be long now. It wasn't so much the way the Bombers operated as the way the Cards didn't.

The once rough-and-ready Redbirds looked and acted yesterday like a well-beaten ball club—a club that was whipped and knew it. They showed little of the old zing and zip that marked their '42 series show.

Russo Steals Show

However, yesterday was strictly Russo Day around Sportsman's park, and they won't be forgetting the forgotten man very soon in this neighborhood. A hero of the 1941 series with a fancy four-hitter against the Bums of Brooklyn, Russo had the miseries in his flipper in '42, won only four games, and when series time came 'round, he was less well known than the batboy.

Well, the folks have a formal introduction, with trimmings, now, because he cooked up a seven-hit batch of cauliflower for the Cards yesterday. And in his spare time, he put the Hollandaise sauce on it by thumping out a pair of two-baggers. The second one of these, off Harry Brecheen who relieved starter Max Lanier and was charged with the loss, led to the winning run in the eighth inning, after two Yankee fumbles behind Russo allowed the Cards to tie it up in the seventh. Just for a laugh, it might be pointed out that Marius the Sluggo hit a tremendous .194 this season.

The Yanks scored first when Joe (I'm Getting Even) Gordon doubled and Bill Dickey singled in the fourth and the Cards tied it up, like a birthday present for the missus, in the seventh when errors by Frankie Crosetti and Bill Johnson sandwiched Danny Litwiler's two bagger.

Stop Halts Rally

But Crosetti more than made up for it in the eighth. With Stan Musial on first, he made a sizzling sop of Walker Cooper's grounder back of second. It went for a base hit, but the play allowed Musial to get only as far as second, instead of taking a ticket to third. If the ball had gone through, and Musial reached third, he would easily have scored the tying run on Whitey Kurowski's long fly to left which followed. This was the big break of the game, the play that kept this series in the same old tracks of at least one break a day that makes it chicken for one club, feathers for the other.

Martin Says Cross, Sword Must Join

Harrisburg, Oct. 11 (AP)—Governor Martin believes "the cross and the sword" must unite to make and keep the peace of the world.

Speaking at annual Rally Day services of the Harrisburg Christ Lutheran church yesterday, Martin declared:

"I know that millions of our good and well-meaning people feel that the sword and the cross cannot be allied. And yet many of the great human virtues symbolized by the cross have been attained and safeguarded by the sword.

"The churches have a great responsibility in peace and in war. They are the soul of the nation. They are its spiritual foundation. Our form of government needs the churches; it must depend greatly upon them, and I am confident they will meet that great responsibility."

Andy Stopper Beats Villanova

Philadelphia, Oct. 11 (AP)—Andy Stopper, who starred on Villanova's undefeated football team of 1937, personally conducted the Sampson, N. Y., Naval Training Station eleven to a 17 to 7 triumph over the current representatives of his Alma Mater at Shibe Park yesterday.

Stopper did everything but figure in the scoring column, rolling up most of Sampson's yardage as the Sailors registered 14 first downs to the Wildcats four. Don Principe, former Fordham star and later of the New York Giants, plunged over for the first Sampson touchdown in the first quarter, and Bob Tarrant registered the second on a pass in the third period, while Vic Schleck kicked both points after the touchdowns and booted a 30-yard field goal in the last period. Al Postus passed to Billy Sullivan in the end zone for Villanova's lone touchdown in the third quarter.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—Note to the boys in St. Louis: Hope you remembered to make your reservations to come home; that series isn't going to last much longer. . . . Judging from the ripples on the air waves, St. Louis fans are a lot more enthusiastic about their home team than New Yorkers. They gave Johnny Lindell a real Brooklyn welcome his first time at bat and there was no doubt that they meant "get a basket" when they started throwing things to celebrate Billy Johnson's fumble in the seventh. . . . anyway, the series record for Crooshal "breaks" remains intact. Yesterday's clincher was when Walker Cooper overslid second to wreck the Cards eighth inning threat, making it three out instead of three on base. And the Yanks might have had another run if Russo hadn't been caught off third in the third inning.

Things you don't hear at the ball game: At a tense moment in yesterday's game, the roar of airplane motors could be heard on the broadcast and announcer Bob Elson remarked: "There's a plane coming over; nobody on, nobody out."

MONDAY MATINEE

Chuck Drensen, the Dodgers coach, is reported to be considering a $10,000 offer to manage the Atlanta club. . . . Hub Nelson, the Big Penn tackle who is getting gaudy notices from the experts, was all wrapped up and ready for delivery to the pro Giants when the Navy ordered him back to Quakerstown. . . . Glen Oaks of Great Neck, N. Y., which topped all the golf clubs in Red Cross contributions last season with $1,442, is out in front again this year, having collected $3,263 from war benefit events. . . . another record: Jimmy Murray, the Oakland, Calif., fight matchmaker, has about 250 neckties and has given away about three times as many—but he can only wear one at a time. . . . the Yanks Bill Johnson just laughed off warnings that he'd be jinxed when he allowed his picture to be taken with nine bats on his shoulder—but you notice he didn't get a hit yesterday.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Reese Hart, Raleigh (N.C.) Times: "Zeke Bonura has got the Arabs playing baseball in North Africa. We hasten to add that if the Arabs aren't any faster than Zeke when he was covering first base for the White Sox, they should take up checkers or pinocle as an American past time."

SERVICE DEPARTMENT

Charley Dykes, Jimmy's son, has been playing third base for the Navy Amphibious training base team at Ft. Pierce, Fla., the Ft. Sheridan, Ill., post football team had to get along without regular quarterback Bill Andrews for three days recently but there was no complaint from Lieut. John Phipps, the coach. Bill got a pass to help relieve the labor shortage on his Michigan farm and spent his time cutting corn, picking spuds and hauling wood. . . . Cadet Fred Meyers, former Stanford and Philadelphia Eagles end, topped his battalion graduating from Del Monte, Calif., Pre-Flight school recently with a composite grade of 3.61—as compared to the perfect 4.0. . . . just another dumb football player.

A CRACK AT THE MACKS

Staff Sergeant Ray Keyes of Foster Field, Texas, an old Athletics' fan from Williamsport, Pa., sent a baseball autographed by Connie Mack and his hired hands to 13-year-old Mark Richards of Sherman Oaks, Calif. . . . A short time later Ray's young pal wrote: "My team was in the middle of the baseball championship of Van Nuys. We had lost two straight games. We tossed the autographed ball around to all the guys before the game and we won. So we did it before every other game and won the championship. . . . Followers of seven other American league clubs probably will claim that shows the kinship between one bunch of sand-lotters and another.

Nearly half the persons engaged in producing communications equipment are women.

Crosetti Falls And Musial Gets To Second

Frank Corsetti, Yankee shortstop, falls as he tries unsuccessfully to stop Walker Cooper's grounder in the eighth inning of the fourth game in the World Series in St. Louis, and meanwhile Musial reaches second safely. Joe Gordon, Yank second baseman, goes after the ball (arrow). New York won, 2-1, to take a 3-1 game advantage. (AP Wirephoto.)

Huntingdon, John Harris Lead Loops

(By The Associated Press)

Huntingdon soared to the top of the Western scholastic football conference and Harrisburg's John Harris high took over sole possession of first place in the Big 15 as a result of last week's games.

Although defeating Harrisburg Catholic, a non-conference team, John Harris added 1000 points to its percentage to go away out in front of its nearest rival, William Penn, also of Harrisburg, which has a mere 125 points.

By defeating Lock Haven, Huntingdon crawled from 118 to 143 percentage points, ousting Roaring Spring which fell to fourth place despite its win over Bedford.

Merchantville, N. J., Oct. 11 (AP)—S. John Page, 80, who retired two years ago after 60 years in the wholesale furniture business at Philadelphia and Williamsport, Pa., died yesterday at his home here.

The life of wood may be lengthened three to ten times by treatment of chromated zinc chloride in pressure chambers.

CALVERT HALL DOWNS DELONE

Delone Catholic High lost a hard-fought 7-6 decision to the Calvert Hall football team of Baltimore Sunday afternoon on the McSherrystown field, a failure to convert a point after a touchdown preventing a tie score.

Coach Jake Drach's warriors, who meet Gettysburg High here Friday evening, scored in the second period when Folmer crashed through the line for about five yards after a sustained drive. H. Noel's dropkick for the extra point failed.

Calvert tallied its touchdown in the same period on a long pass and then made good on the extra point on a line plunge.

The Squires threatened to pull the game from the fire in the final period when they moved to the 2-yard line but were unable to produce the punch for a score.

Need "Common Sense" At Brewster Plants

Johnsville, Pa., Oct. 11 (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser was back in New York today to confer with representatives of labor at Brewster Aeronautical Corporation plants, after a surprise visit to the plant here yesterday, in which he said "common sense" would solve the company's problems in producing aircraft for the Navy.

The shipbuilding wizard, who was elected president of Brewster last week after serving as board chairman, said, "Labor was not the main problem. There have been financial problems, material problems and many others."

Kaiser observed, "It isn't genius to give employees materials to work with. It's just common sense." Then, turning to his son, he said, "Henry, Jr., will be on the job full time. He and I will spend most of our time at the Long Island City plant. It is making many of the parts used here at Johnsville, and we must get it into efficient operation."

Of Thomas DeLorenzo, president of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) local at the plant, Kaiser said, "He is giving all the cooperation I could ask. The workers generally are the same."

1,846 Relief Cases Dropped Last Month

Harrisburg, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Public Assistance Department dropped 1,846 cases of all types from its rolls in September. Secretary Samuel Y. Ramage reported, leaving the state assistance load on October 1 at 155,883 cases representing 243,108 persons.

General assistance cases declined 802 to 25,602; aid to dependent children, 654 cases to 27,651; old age assistance, 367 cases to 89,259, and blind pensions, 23 to 13,371.

Ramage also reported 488 men and 82 women, formerly employed by the department and its county assistance boards, are now in the armed forces.

Fortress Survives Rocket Gun Blast

A U. S. Bomber Base in England, Oct. 11 (AP)—A part of the projectile fired from the Nazis' new Rocket gun was brought back to this base, lodged in the wing of the Flying Fortress "Speedball."

Sgt. Frank Swica of Export, Pa., and Lt. Bradley Squires of Bellevue, Pa., members of the crew, said the guns are mounted under the wings and look like extra engines.

"When this one hit I thought the whole top of the ship had blown off," said Swica, "and I was loading ammunition at the time."

NEXT SATURDAY IDEAL SPOT FOR GRID UPHEAVAL

By TED MEIER

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—The coming Saturday provides the ideal situation for a flock of upsets in college football.

This doesn't mean that Wisconsin will beat Notre Dame, for instance, but sometimes a team that everyone expects to win gets overconfident.

Since few expect the Badgers to defeat the Irish, Columbia to trounce Army, Penn State to wallopp Navy, Ohio State to whip Purdue; San Francisco to down Southern California; North Carolina to stop Duke; Lakehurst Naval to lick Pennsylvania; Camp Grant to take Minnesota; Oklahoma to manhandle Tulsa or Missouri to humble the Iowa Seahawks, there are the "makings" of some juicy form reversals.

After Notre Dame's 35 to 12 rout of Michigan on Saturday it will be an upset for Wisconsin to hold the score down or tie the undefeated Irish like they did a year ago. Frank Leahy's boys from South Bend definitely stamped themselves as the outstanding team in the country in gaining revenge for the 32 to 20 defeat Michigan handed them in 1942.

George Munger's unbeaten University of Pennsylvania eleven squeezed past its first real test of the season in defeating Dartmouth, 7 to 6. The Quakers threw back seven of eight Green threats, once holding for downs on the six-inch line, and won on a conversion by Frank McKernan.

Navy Beats Duke

Navy tumbled Duke from the unbeaten ranks by winning, 14 to 13. The Blue Devils missed a tie when Bob Gantt, who previously had booted 18 of 20 points after touchdown, failed to kick the extra point after a fourth period score.

Army and Purdue, both powerful, stayed at the top of the undefeated class by sweeping aside Temple and Camp Grant, while Cornell walloped Princeton. Pitt beat West Virginia; Great Lakes took Ohio State; USC humbled St. Mary's Pre-Flight; Tulane battered Rice; Tulsa mangled Texas Tech; Georgia Tech downed the Georgia Navy; Illinois bagged Wisconsin; Texas Aggies stopped Louisiana State; and Penn State and Colgate battled to a scoreless tie.

Holy Cross, looking ahead to Cornell this week, trounced the Coast Guard academy, 32 to 0, in a Sunday game, while Villanova fell before the Sampson Naval Training Station, 17-7.

GAS FUMES FATAL

Pittsburgh, Oct. 11 (AP)—Carbon monoxide poisoning apparently from the fumes of a gas heater in a portable bath killed William Haggert, 36, a steam shovel operator, Saturday at a construction camp in Robison township, the coroner's office announced.

Two Democrats of the House Ways and Means committee, which originates tax legislation, squared off on opposite sides of the sales tax issue, bracing for a showdown fight that portends political fireworks.

Rep. Robertson (D-Va.) announced he would urge the committee to adopt the sales levy as a substitute for the administration program which envisages higher tax rates on individual and corporate income and on so-called luxury items, such as liquor and tobacco.

The Virginian was the first committee member to declare himself publicly for this levy.

Rep. Dingell (D-Mich.) countered by declaring the sales tax principle "without equity, honesty or decency."

Retired Teachers Keep Schools Open

Harrisburg, Oct. 11 (AP)—From the ranks of the retired—farmer to missionary—are coming war-time teachers needed to keep many Pennsylvania schools open.

They are volunteers empowered by a 1943 act to teach under a special emergency certificate for the war's duration to help ease a critical teacher shortage in the state.

Dr. Henry Klonower, state director of Teacher Education and certification, today placed the number of emergency teachers at 517 and added they "may reach 1,000 before the year is over."

"Many are expert carpenters, sheet metal workers and farmers in the upper age group," he said. "Several are ministers who teach during the week and occupy the pulpit on Sunday."

"One is a missionary. Two are dressmakers. Many are secretaries, housewives and former teachers who have given up their retirement allowances for the time being."

They are "doing excellent work," Dr. Klonower said and added that 25 per cent are college graduates, 80 per cent have had some college training while the remainder are qualified for special positions despite lack of advanced education.

Charleroi, Pa., Oct. 11 (AP)—James Barrett, 48, a steelworker, today received a United States Army Victory medal citation for services in World War I, after the order had spent 24 years in the mails.

"I never knew such a citation existed," Barrett said. It authorizes him to wear the victory medal with three battle clasps and a service ribbon.

An Evening Thought

There is nothing more nearly permanent in human life than a well-established custom.—Joseph Anderson.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

SUMMER'S END

Back to the city's motor horns,
Away from the cawing crows;
Away from the country's noisy
dawns

To sounds which the city knows!
Back to the tyrant telephone

And the newboys raucous cries,
Back to a room I can call my own
Away from the wasps and flies!

Back to the papers off the press
Instead of "just two days old!"
Back to collars and proper dress

To shops where all things are sold,
Back to napkins of linen white,
To a chair that won't collapse;

To water hot and electric light
And back to a steak (perhaps)!

Away from the stair that shakes
and squeaks

And from windows hard to close,
Away from the shingled roof that leaks

And the chill when the north wind
blows,

Away from the common butter dish
And the empty fountain pen,
Away from the chore of cleaning
fish

And glad to be home again!

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THINKING MAKES IT SO

Over and over again, we need to convince ourselves that thinking rules our lives—our health, our attitude toward others and our very happiness. Nothing good, or evil, can be that thinking doesn't make it so.

It takes but a brief talk with anyone to discover just what bosses rule the mind of such a one. It may be the Worry boss, the Money-mad boss, the Complaint boss, the Always-tired boss, or the Chip-on-the-shoulder boss—just to name a few.

To succumb to any one of these mental bosses is to acknowledge that thinking makes it so. On the other hand, it is possible for thinking to turn the whole gang of "mental block-busters" into the street of Oblivion!

A thorough knowledge of this intricately constructed body of ours is absolutely essential to an efficient handling of the problems that face it throughout life. And yet how very few know hardly more about it than they have to suffer when it gets out of order! Most folks take better care of their cars, homes, or businesses than they do of their bodies. Health is the greatest asset that a body can have—and that means the mind, for this mind cannot work efficiently in a body that is all out of sorts.

As a boy I used to go with my father to the country on many of his calls. He was a minister. And I shall never forget one of these calls on an old lady, who was a member of his church. He said: "Well, Sister, how are you today?" Her reply amused and astounded me, even then. She said: "Quite miserable, Pastor, quite miserable." I didn't doubt that she was telling the truth. Her thinking made it so.

There is no power on earth that can equal the power, or possibility, of the mind. It is God's greatest gift to man. And he meant that every individual should recognize the fact.

Like a good Emperor, that mind of yours can reach out into every crook and corner of its bodily realm. And it is up to every owner of this body to choose how good, or great, this mind shall be and how mighty its rule shall be.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Greatest Human Possession."

Examine Your Tickets: We have just been shown a printed ticket, forwarded from Mountjoy township, in which the names of all the Whig candidates, except one, are as printed by the county committee. The name of Dr. Gilbert is placed as treasurer in the room of Mr. McClellan, the candidate of the party. To what extent these tickets have been circulated, we cannot tell—but we suppose the county is flooded with them.

Let every man see whom he votes for—take care that no one be deceived by hollow pretensions, and the secret arts of demagogues—but give an undivided vote for the ticket, the whole ticket!! It is a crisis in which every man should feel that upon himself alone may depend the result, and act accordingly.

The "Young Guard" must take care that no more locofoco triumphs shall be sounded among her hills and valleys!

FUGITIVE SLAIN
BY POLICE AFTER
10-DAY SEARCH

Pittsburgh, Oct. 11 (AP)—Matthew Kozera, 33-year-old fugitive ex-convict for whom rewards totaling $6,000 had been posted, was dead today, killed in a furious gun battle and hand-to-hand fight with two detectives who sought to arrest him for the slaying ten days ago of County Detective Albert T. Lorch.

Kozera died late last night at the bottom of a cellar stairway where he had tumbled with Detective Inspector Walter C. Monaghan as the two struggled for possession of the fugitive's gun.

Monaghan and Detective Vincent Bonacci met Kozera in the darkened hallway of a rooming house, and several shots were exchanged as the two officers closed in on him. At one point in the struggle Monaghan seized the fugitive's gun hand just as Kozera attempted to fire point blank at Bonacci, and the hammer of the gun fell on the fleshy part of the detective inspector's hand, preventing the gun from firing.

Shot Five Times

As Monaghan and Kozera tumbled down the stairway, following a furious struggle in which the latter sought to free his gun hand from the officer's grasp, several more shots were fired, one from Kozera's gun going over Monaghan's shoulder, the detective said.

At the bottom of the stairway Kozera lay still. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy hospital. At the morgue, officials said he had been shot five times. He also suffered several deep scalp lacerations, one of which could have been fatal, morgue attendants said.

Refused To Surrender

Kozera had been sought throughout the East since the death of Detective Lorch ten days ago. Lorch was killed with his own gun after a scuffle in an alley with Kozera when he attempted to arrest him for questioning in connection with a tavern burglary. The gun taken from Kozera's body was identified by Monaghan as Lorch's.

The detectives waited two hours for Kozera after the proprietress of the rooming house, Mrs. Lucy Troilo told Detective Bonacci, an acquaintance, she believed a new roomer to be the fugitive.

They said they called for him to surrender, but he drew his gun as they closed on him and the terrific struggle followed.

Flashes of Life

BARBERSHOP CAMPAIGN

Hartford, Conn. (AP)—Conversion is likely to be even faster and furiously in George's barber shop for the next month.

The proprietor, George Rogow, is Democratic alderman from the third ward and is running for reelection.

At the other chair presides Louis Kosoff, who has just been given the Republican nomination for alderman from the third ward.

HUBBY ON THE SPOT

Philadelphia (AP)—Betty MacAtee says she never was a back seat driver in an automobile.

But when she became a wartime trolley car operator and was made conductor on her husband's car—"I never was so nervous in my life. I found myself watching what Ray was doing instead of attending to my business. I never do that when I'm working with other motormen."

STEALS HIS STUFF

Philadelphia (AP)—Walter Burns, a juggler, told police someone literally stole the show.

While he lunched, his car was looted of:

Six splining plates, several Indian clubs, an assortment of colored wooden balls, two battered hats and a trumpet he blows while keeping the rest of the stuff in the air.

URBAN POW WOW

Chicago (AP)—Some 400 Chicago Indians, representatives of various tribes that once roamed the prairie land, will gather at State and Madison in the Loop to do a dance and pray for these things:

1. Victory for the Allies
2. Success of the Community and War Fund drive.
3. That it won't rain the day the Chicago subway opens.

GET WAR INDUSTRY

Kane, Pa., Oct. 11 (AP)—Construction of a factory here by the Automatic Engineering Works of Chicago, manufacturers of war materials, is virtually assured, J. M. Harre, president of the Chamber of Commerce announced. Production is expected to start "before winter," he said, adding the Chamber has agreed to finance construction of a $20,000 factory building.

Army, and Gen. Joseph R. Hawley, of Connecticut.

The night meeting was a monster demonstration, for exceeding in number that of the afternoon. When it became evident that the court room would not hold half the people, lights were extinguished at a stand in the diamond. This meeting was addressed by Clinton Lloyd, Esq., of Williamsport; Gen. Hawley, and Col. Moffin, of Staunton, Virginia.

Questioned In Triple Slaying

Pennsylvania State Police and Mercer county authorities questioned William Morell, 20-year-old farmhand (left) and his girl companion, Janice Graham, 20, also employed on the farm, in connection with a triple slaying on a dairy farm near Mercer, Pa. Morell was being held in the Mercer county jail on a murder charge, according to District Attorney Edwin C. Moon. (AP Wirephoto.)

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

During the past 14 weeks the service edition of the "Times" has afforded me much pleasure and comfort. I read every item in each copy, and found it to be an effective preventative of homesickness. Frequently upon glancing over the paper, I would see names of friends and neighbors. It gave me reason to pause and wonder what they were doing and how they were getting along at the time I was reading about them.

So often boys in the service have a tendency to ridicule their small home town. But I know that had they been able to keep in touch with home through the aid of a local newspaper, this attitude would not have presented itself.

I feel that I speak in behalf of all who receive the "Times" when I sincerely thank you for sending to the boys in khaki and blue the hometown news.

Hoping that I may continue to receive the "Gettysburg Times," I make notice of change in my address.

Yours truly,

PVT. JAMES M. STONER,
Co. B, Barracks No. 3, A.S.T.P.,
Wash. & Jeff. College,
Washington, Pa.

Dear Sir:

I have been in the Navy nearly three weeks now and I enjoy it very much. There are a few things that I would like to tell the people back home. One thing is, don't ever let anyone tell you that most boys join the Navy so they don't have to walk so much. That's not true because they do walk a great deal especially drilling with rifles on your shoulder for about two hours straight. Today we had regimental service day and it really made my legs tired. We had to steel-wood the floor in one of the drill halls which is about four times as big as the Gettysburg high school gym. The boys up here call it the Great Lakes shuffle.

We had two fire drills since I have been here. This is what we do when we have a fire drill. As soon as the guard yells, "fire," we have to hit the deck which is hard for me because I sleep in the top bunk which is about a five-foot drop. Then we run outside without any clothes on which is a little cold at this time of year. Since I wrote the last letter I have another haircut. They don't give it time to start to grow.

There is one thing I don't like about the Navy uniform. That is all the buttons that you have to button and unbutton, especially when you have to change so many times a day.

I want to thank you for sending me the Service Edition of The Times. I enjoy reading it very much. I never realized how much I would miss the good old Gettysburg Times. I want to thank the people who wrote to me since I have been here. I will try my best to answer all the letters. I like the Navy a lot but how I wish I was back at the Times and News Publishing company. Goodbye and lots of luck to everybody.

A-S JOSEPH BOSAK,

Co. 1368, USNLS,
Great Lakes, Illinois

Dear Sir:

That weekly edition of The Times is a wonderful invention! As so many others in the service have reported before, I too, devour it with great interest. Although I have been away from Gettysburg for over a year, it's still home to me and news from home is always welcome.

I am now a student at the Army Administration School here at Alpine. The buildings and facilities of Sue Ross State college have been taken over, much as the Gettysburg college buildings have. Alpine is a small resort town and the people are very friendly to all of us. However, we don't have much opportunity to see them. We go to classes from eight to five every day but Sunday. By the time we are free, we are all too tired and too busy to get into town.

Despite all the work, I am very glad that I am in the WAC. It's a thrill to know that I am a part of the armed services, even if I am a small part. There is something so satisfying in being here. When I finish the course in administration, I'll be sent to an Army post to work with a WAC Headquarters Company. Where, I don't know.

Sincerely yours,
PVT. MARY E. FRAZEE, WAC,
Co. B, WAC, Br. 7,
AAS, Alpine, Texas.

Dear Sir:

It is once more I wish to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to you and the members of your staff for the many issues of The Times paper which I have received and enjoy reading so very much. The boys whom I work with know I am from Gettysburg and they remember that historic battle that was fought there. We have interesting discussions on the same subject. They enjoy reading The Times also.

Well I guess before I go any further I should tell you the good news. While in town one day this week I was just getting into a truck to return to camp when I saw a very good friend of mine, I called to him and he stopped. We shook hands and talked about half an hour. He is a former employee of your staff, namely, Corporal James H. Harness. I sure was glad to see him as he is one of my best pals. Strange part about the whole situation is the fact that on the same morning of the day I met him I received a letter from him stating that he had seen George Tate and Barney Small and they told him where I was located and that he was going to look me up. We now know where each other are located and will be seeing lots of each other. I am proud to say I don't remember telling you this but I also met Lt. Clarence (Reds) Epley a few weeks ago.

Well this section of Africa is still hot and dry but I guess before so very long when I write to you I will have to eat those very same words. However, that's all part of the game though. There are two things which I think helps to keep the morale up of a soldier who is far from home and they are to receive the home town newspaper and receive mail from home. I look forward each day with intense eagerness for those two things.

I am learning more each day about the people, their languages, customs, likes and dislikes. One learns something new each day. Well, it seems as though I have just about told you all I can think of to tell you at the present so once again I want to thank you for making it possible for me and other boys in the service to receive The Times.

In closing may I ask the continued prayers of you folks back home for your sons and the sons of others who are engaged in the struggle to make this world a better place in which to live. God grant us the power to carry on and keep the good news pouring in and it won't be long before all of us will return to our respective families once again. Well, I must close now with lots of love to all and will be saying God bless all of you.

Sincerely,

PVT. JOHN H. MYERS

Dear Sir:

Many thanks for the service edition of The Times. It affords me much pleasure and is a source of inspiration.

I am temporarily on duty here in South Carolina guarding German prisoners of war.

Much of the fighting spirit seems to have left them, and the surrender of Italy did not help them any. A few things I have observed concerning them is their great liking to the American food, much of which was very scarce there. They seem to have a great respect for the American soldier, no doubt gained from actual combat with them.

There seems to be a great lack of religion among them. They are good workers, and are healthy, strong and young. Most seem under 25 years old.

At present they are harvesting the peanut crops here. To us to whom falls the task of guarding them we bear no ill will or hatred. We only have the desire of every other red-blooded true American, the desire to live our lives in our own way free from want and fear. Freedom of speech and religion and to that end we do and will continue to fight to protect those God-given rights.

America, the land we love, long may it be the land of the brave! I see you are in the midst of the 3rd War bond drive and may I wish you the best of luck. America needs every dollar we can spare for war is an expensive thing and freedom is a precious thing. It can only be bought with a payment of many human lives.

There are many of our own boys have already made that supreme sacrifice believing that this would continue to be a fine America.

Dare we let down now in our efforts to push forward, ever forward! Surely their voices will haunt us from the graves of far and distant shores if you, their loved ones, let down and fail them now. We cannot, we will not, fail. Let this be our motto that those who died did not die in vain.

Each bond that you, the loved ones on the home front buy, brings the conflict that much nearer the end. The more bonds, the sooner the end of the war. Hence, the sooner we come home.

The more bonds the less lives will be sacrificed. We offer all that we have willingly for freedom's cause. What are you offering your country?

If you cannot fight, then back the fight by topping the ten per cent until victory is won, and your sons and brothers and husbands march victorious through the streets of Berlin and Tokyo—until Hitler and Tojo holler Uncle.

FARMHAND HAS CONFESSED TO KILLING THREE

Mercer, Pa., Oct. 11 (AP)—William Albert Morell, husky, 20-year-old farmhand, has made a "full and complete" confession to the slayings of three persons last Thursday on a dairy farm near here, State Police Sergeant Frank Milligan announced.

District Attorney Edwin C. Moon said Morell would be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Thomas McClean today on charges of first-degree murder.

Morell was questioned yesterday by Milligan and Moon. The youth's statement as quoted by Milligan, was substantially as follows:

About noon Thursday Morell bound and gagged Mrs. Everett Wilson, 46, wife of the dairy farm owner, then looped a rope about her neck and left. This followed an argument in a barn at the farm. Mrs. Wilson later was found dead.

Waive Extradition

Then Morell went to the farmhouse and shot the dairymen's mother, Mrs. Catherine Wilson, 76, and Robert McKay, 70, a farmhand.

He then trusted up Janice Graham, 20, a hired girl at the farm, and forced her to flee with him. Morell said he "intended to marry" the girl and added:

"She did not know I had killed anybody until next day."

Milligan said Morell, in making the statement, spoke in a calm, level voice, showing no emotion. He gave no reason for his actions except to say of the victims, "I didn't like them."

Morell and the Graham girl were captured Friday night at a farmhouse in Claridon township, Ohio, by Sheriff Stuart M. Harland of Geauga county. They waived extradition and were brought back to Mercer Saturday.

Thinks She Loves Him

Miss Graham, questioned by officers, said she accompanied Morell after he freed her bonds "because I was afraid of what he might do to me."

When she was asked if she was in love with Morell, she was quoted by Milligan as answering haltingly: "I—I think so."

Prosecutor Moon said he did not believe any charge would be filed against the girl.

I am temporarily on duty here in South Carolina guarding German prisoners of war.

Much of the fighting spirit seems to have left them, and the surrender of Italy did not help them any. A few things I have observed concerning them is their great liking to the American food, much of which was very scarce there. They seem to have a great respect for the American soldier, no doubt gained from actual combat with them.

There seems to be a great lack of religion among them. They are good workers, and are healthy, strong and young. Most seem under 25 years old.

YANKS DOWN 300 NAZI AIRPLANES IN THREE DAYS

London, Oct. 11 (AP)—Boosting Nazi plane losses to more than 300 in three days, American Flying Fortresses and escorting Thunderbolts shot down 102 enemy planes yesterday as the big bombers tore through stubborn defenses to blast the important German transportation centers of Munster and Coesfeld.

Thirty bombers and two fighters, a communiqué said, were lost by the American formations, which also hit an enemy airfield near Enschede, Holland, in the blazing climax to a week-end of violent Allied aerial activity that riddled the German's fighter strength.

While the size of the attacking American formations was not offi-

In summarizing her report Mrs. Bream said:

"I cannot properly express my deepest appreciation and thanks to the many women in Adams county who devoted so much of their time and effort in the Third War Bond drive. Without their unselfish assistance the Women's Division could not have achieved the exceptional results the final report reveals. It is gratifying to know that the women of Adams county measure, step-by-step, with the men in 'Backing the Attack' for our men on the fighting front. It has been a pleasure to be associated with and to work with such a splendid group. To them goes the credit for the success of our drive."

cially disclosed, there was reason to believe that they may have approximated the record concentrations of 400 bombers which hammered German targets on each of the two preceding days.

The American raids reached a new high in strength of numbers on Friday, when Fortresses and Liberators bombed the Stuka factory in Bremen and submarine ship-building yards at Vegesack nearby, and on Saturday, when they flew a round trip of 1,800 miles—their deepest penetration of Nazi territory—to hit the former free city of Danzig, the former Polish city of Gdynia and other targets in eastern Germany.

Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the U. S. Eighth Air Force, disclosed that the attacking force on both Friday and Saturday totalled 400 bombers, and said these and other raids to follow were in preparation for an Allied invasion of Germany "across the English channel and the North sea."

Aim To Save Lives

The big push into Germany, when it comes, will cost lives just as the landings at Salerno did," General Eaker added. "It is the task of the Eighth Air Force and the RAF to destroy factories and transport and weapons of the Germans so our invasion casualties will be cut down. 'This is our stern assignment this winter. We shall not shirk it.'"

With 10 men to a bomber, more than 4,000 American airmen took part in both the Friday and Saturday raids.

"The fight now is at white heat," Eaker declared.

The Americans went out by daylight yesterday only a few hours after Berlin was raided by night-flying RAF Mosquito bombers for the 14th time in less than a month.

In the Wake of MURDER

By ADELINE McELFRESH

Chapter 22

The tree wavered, fiery brands dropping on the highway. Jane pressed the accelerator against the floor boards. Then the tree was falling.

For the split second that it took for the car to plunge across the danger area, Jane was conscious of nothing except the tongues of flame that licked red, raw holes in the night. Then, slowly, almost painfully, she realized that they had escaped the falling torch by the width of a bumper.

Sparks flew against the car and bounced off like tiny stars to fade into the reddish glow that was like a horribly modernistic painting. But they were safe.

The fire might be lashing at their heels but they had escaped it. In the blessed relief that flooded her veins, Jane wondered if Aunt Ella had regained consciousness. Poor soul. . . . What could have happened to her? Had she fallen, striking her head against the hall table?

Jane had noticed no blood on it but, then, there had been no room in her thoughts for anything but the urgent need to flee.

She drove half a mile further down the lonely road before she felt it was safe to stop and check on her aunt's condition. The fire was well behind them now.

Mrs. Black was still unconscious. Jane felt the head wound gingerly. There was very little blood now but she applied a wet towel.

In the distance she could hear shouts of the firefighters. Their words were unintelligible, mingled as they were with the roar that was "much like that of a heavily loaded freight train pulling a long grade, but there was an urgency about them that stirred Jane's heart. Those men were fighting a grim and relentless enemy, an enemy who knew no quarter.

Was Brad out there with them? Jane wondered, perhaps praying a little that he was.

Or had he released her at her apartment in order to flee the district? Had the fire completed his mission here?

Resolutely, she pushed the question aside. She couldn't—she wouldn't—think of them now. There was no time. Aunt Ella must have medical attention in a hurry. Jane slid behind the wheel and gave the starter a vicious kick that worked off some of her anger against Brad for not taking her into his confidence.

After all, he could trust her. He should have known that. If he is a government agent. The six words were emblazoned on her mind like a front-page streamer.

"You are a fool, Jane Carter," she announced, amazed that her voice sounded just the same despite the terror she had known in the last twenty minutes.

In the meantime, Brad, working side by side with a brawny army sergeant, felt that they were fighting a losing battle.

The flames were leaping from tree-top to tree-top like energetic monkeys and creeping like fiery, treacherous little snakes across the pine needles that carpeted the forest. Nothing seemed to stop it—or even to hinder the rapid spread. A stiff wind was blowing the fire hard ahead, threatening to toss it across the wide avenue that was being cleared well to the front of the advancing fire line.

Brad swung his axe again and again, chopping out the underbrush that would be like so much kindling to the flame. His hands were cut and bleeding, his clothing was ripped to shreds. His shoulders ached as every muscle protested the unusual exertion.

There had been nothing in his Secret Service training to prepare him for this, he realized grimly. The big sergeant, his Irish face wet with sweat despite the bitter December cold, was working methodically—swing, strike, toss the brush back to be carried away, swing, strike.

The saw mill was silent for the first time in many months as the men from the owl snift joined in the fight. Could they save the irreplaceable machinery? The finished lumber that would be invaluable in war work?

It had to be saved, Brad told himself as the ax bit into another bush.

Cross-cut saws eating systematically through tree trunks. Every few seconds a tree would crash earthward, men would fall upon it like ants on a piece of sugar, and soon it would be carted off and the clearing would be wider.

Two men whom Brad recognized as Red Cross workers from Centralia were coming down the line of sweating, swearing men, handing out cups of water. For the first time, Brad was aware of his dry lips, his parched throat.

He extended one grimy hand for the cup without a word and drained it. Never had champagne tasted better. Mopping sweat from his forehead with the back of his hand, he swung the ax again, picking up the old rhythm.

"How're we doing, Sarge?" he asked after a while.

The soldier shook his head. He didn't miss a stroke.

"Look's bad," he replied. "Pine burns quick."

You're telling me, Brad thought. Aloud he said: "If the wind would change."

"Yeah," the sergeant grunted. "We'd have a chance then."

Reinforcements were arriving. Brad could hear the trucks roll up, discharge their loads, and roar away again.

Up and down the line, men were beginning to drop out for brief rest periods and newcomers were taking their places.

And the flames were licking closer and closer, eating their way relentlessly ahead.

The men worked frantically the full length of the line. That avenue must be wider. So wide that the wind would not carry the flames across it.

But was it possible? Brad was beginning to doubt it. With that wind whipping from the northwest as it was, success seemed farther away than ever.

Two hours had taken a heavy toll from all of them. Brad straightened for a moment, easing some of the strain across his shoulders.

An exclamation from the husky sergeant caught his attention.

"Hey, look!" Sarge shouted above the clamor.

Brad saw the man just as he fell directly in the path of the flames. With a hoarse cry, he sprang forward.

Vaguely, he heard the sergeant yell, "Come back here! There's no chance!" but he lunged ahead. He had to reach that man before the fire did.

With three Soviet bridgeheads on the central Dnieper river now apparently secure, there were indications that the Russian command was building up to a major effort to drive the retreating Nazis out of Russian territory and to slash across the last land communications between the central sector and the Leningrad area, the only spot along the long, winding 1,200-mile front where the Red Army has made no appreciable gains since the opening of the summer offensive.

Two Russian columns advancing on the white Russian city of Vitebsk from the northeast and southeast announced gains of from four to seven miles and the capture of 146 villages.

The Red Army units southeast of Vitebsk were at Liozno, 25 miles away. The capture of the town of Krasnoe, important rail center on the Vitebsk-Gomel line, also was announced and the Russian troops were in position here for a thrust

Willkie Supports Edge In N. Jersey

Newark, N. J., Oct. 11 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie stood today behind Walter E. Edge, Republican candidate for Governor, for whom the national Republican leader declared he would cast a vote "were I a voter in New Jersey."

The 1940 G.O.P. presidential candidate denied yesterday a charge by Edge's Democratic opponent, Mayor Vincent J. Murphy of Newark, that he had been "embarrassed" by the selection of Edge as a candidate.

Edge's selection, Murphy alleged in a statement, had led Willkie to issue a warning to the Republican candidate characterized Edge as a party to be liberal. The Democratic "reactionary and anti-liberal."
